PRESS COMMUNIQUÉ.

Fort St. George, August 10, 1932
(G.O. Ms. No. 1127, Development).

THE AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH STATION, NANJANAD.

No. 320.—The question of the utility of the Government Potato Farm at Nanjanad on the Nilgiris and of the cost of its maintenance was raised in the Legislative Council, in connexion with an interpellation on the working of the farm answered on 12th March 1932. The following Press note explains the aims and objects of the farm and shows how far it has achieved them, and illustrates the fact that expenditure on works of an experimental character must be relatively high and cannot be expected—and is indeed not designed—to produce a direct profit.

2. The station was established in 1917. The area of the station is 160 acres and the portion at present under cultivation measures approximately 30 acres. The soil is poor and typical of that to be found on the Nilgiris. It is all dry land excepting 2 acres of swamp.

3. The objects with which the station was started are as follows:—

(i) to import and grow disease-free potatoes of good varieties and to distribute them to ryots for seed purposes at a reasonable price,

(ii) to experiment with different kinds of manures to find out which are the best for the district,

(iii) to carry out various experiments with green manures, rotation of crops, etc., and

(iv) to encourage the ryots to adopt more up to date methods of cultivation and grow better varieties of potatoes.

The main items of work now under progress are—

(a) Experiments on different kinds of manures to find out which are the best for potatoes in the district

(b) Trial of different varieties of potatoes to find out the best as regards yield, disease resistance, size and shape, keeping qualities, etc.

(c) Trials to determine yields from cut seed versus whole seed and different sizes of seed with different spacing.

(d) Trial of different methods of sprouting

(e) Trial of different varieties of grain and green manure crops

4. Results that have been obtained on the station and advocated to the ryots—Originally a large area was planted with potatoes annually but diseases especially 'ring disease' appeared in areas where they were grown annually on the same land A rotation longer than one year duration was therefore found necessary and a two-yearly rotation is now practised and advocated.

The application of farm-yard manure alone or artificial manure alone does not increase the yield appreciably but a combination of both does give an appreciable increase. The figures for the past five years are as shown below:—

Farm yard manure alone yielded 2·33 times the quantity of seed planted

Fish guano manure alone yielded 2·30 times the quantity of seed planted.

Farm-yard manure and fish guano yielded 6·21 times the quantity of seed planted.

Potatoes respond very well to the application of farm-yard manure together with a balanced mixture of artificial manure and if a pair of cattle is kept by a ryot, not only the farm yard manure necessary for his crop is obtained but the cost of production per acre is also considerably reduced. Cattle labour is cheaper than manual labour

The practice of throwing rotten and diseased potatoes into the manure pit is in many cases responsible for the spread of disease to the fresh crop of potatoes Propaganda against this practice is being carried out.

The area under potatoes in the Nilgiris is 10,000 acres. Varieties of potatoes tried on the farm and subsequently introduced have now largely ousted old varieties from cultivation and practically the whole of the area now under potatoes in the Nilgiris is grown with improved varieties. The use of better seed and of suitable manures has increased the production of potatoes by 50 to 100 per cent Even on the basis of such a low profit as Rs. 10 an acre, the increased production has enriched the ryots to an extent of from half a lakh to a lakh of annual income, 5 In the field of scientific research, no finality can ever be reached, since new problems always crop up demanding immediate attention.

Expenditure on an experimental farm will necessarily be higher than that on a ryot's holding for reasons stated below:—

In the first place the nature of work done is entirely of a different character. The work on an experimental farm may be broadly classified under three headings, viz., manurial, varietal, and cultural trials. In the manurial trials, a series of experiments such as farm-yard manure alone, artificial manure alone, or a combination of both in different doses is laid down to find out which increases the yield profitably and by how much. Further each series is repeated four or six times to set off the differences in soil fertility which naturally affect the yield. As regards varietal experiments, different varieties are tried to determine the suitable disease-resisting and high yielding varieties to be distributed to the ryots. Each experiment is repeated In the cultural trials, a series of experiments relating, for instance, to the time of planting, the best methods of planting and the rotation to be followed are laid down and each series is repeated. In view of the details of work given above, a specially trained staff, buildings and equipment are necessary to run the farm and naturally the expenditure is high.

The beneficial results obtained on an experimental farm are advertised to the ryots. The ryot is supplied with the best varieties found suitable, advised to use the best type of manures and adopt a particular rotation or time of planting, etc. He thus in one operation combines the results of a series of experiments and naturally the expenditure incurred by him is low.

Bills introduced in the Council of the Governor of Fort St. George assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations.

The following Bills which have been introduced in the Madras Legislative Council together with the Statements of Objects and Reasons are published under rule 20 of the Madras Legislative Council Rules:—

BILL No. 20 OF 1932.

A Bill to amend the Madras Local Boards Act, 1920.

Madras Act XIV of 1920.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Madras Local Boards Act, 1920, with a view to ensure better representation for the Muslim community in the local boards; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act shall be called the Madras Local Boards (Amendment) Act, 1932

2. (i) In section 9 of the Act, sub-section (4) shall be deleted;

(ii) after sub-section (6) of section 9, the following shall be added:—

"In the case of the Muslim community the reservation of seats shall be not less than 15 per cent of the total number of seats or according to the strength of the population of the said community in the local board area, whichever is greater."

(iii) the sub-clauses in the section shall be renumbered.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

According to the present Act, the proportion of reserved seats has been limited to 25 per cent of the total strength of the local boards. This rule has worked a great hardship in the matter of reservation for the Muslim community in that in several local boards the number of seats reserved for the Muslim community is much less than what it was before the amending Act of 1930. The idea of reserving a certain proportion out of this restricted number has also given rise to the mentality among the general electorate that the maximum to which the Muslim community is entitled is the proportion that is reserved for them. So much so, in several boards there seems to be no possibility of any additional seats being secured for the Muslim community beyond the number that is reserved for them. It is felt by the Muslim community that the limiting of this proportion of reserved seats to 25 per cent and the limiting of seats for the Muslim community from among this 25 per cent of the reserved seats has greatly jeopardized the rights of the Muslim community and the chances of their being returned to the local boards. It is therefore sought to omit sub-clause (4) of section 9. Since the reformed constitution the Muslim community has been allowed 15 per cent reservation in the Legislative Council of this Presidency. That itself has been found to be insufficient for purposes of exercising any effective influence over the decision of the Council. With a smaller proportion in the local bodies the Muslim community will never be able to make itself felt and particularly so when the strength of the local boards has been raised considerably. It is therefore felt necessary that the Muslim community should be ensured better representation in order to give them a feeling of safety and security in the local board areas. Hence the addition to sub-clause (6) of section 9.

Provided that the Local Government shall prescribe the forms, language, script and numerals in which the accounts are to be recorded and maintained.

(2) notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, entries in books of account prescribed under clause (b) of sub-section (1) shall be deemed to be relevant for proving any transaction to which they relate, and copies of such entries certified in such manner as may be prescribed shall be admissible in evidence for any purpose in the same manner and to the same extent as the original entries.

Explanation.—A person to whom a statement of account has been sent under clause (a) of sub-section

(1) shall not be bound to acknowledge or deny its correctness and his failure to protest shall not, by itself, be deemed to be an admission of correctness of the account.

Penalty for non compliance.

(c) If the Court finds that the provisions of clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 4 have not been complied with by the creditor, the Court shall in computing the amount of interest due upon the loan exclude every period for which the creditor omitted duly to furnish the account as required by clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 4; provided that if the creditor has after the time prescribed in that clause furnished the account and the plaintiff satisfies the Court that he has had sufficient cause for not furnishing it earlier, the Court may, notwithstanding such omission, include any such period or periods for the purpose of computing the interest.

Explanation.—A person who has kept his accounts and sent his six-monthly statements of accounts in the form and manner prescribed in clauses (b) and (c) of sub-section (1) of section 4 shall be held to have complied with the provisions of these clauses, in spite of errors and omissions, if the Court finds that the errors and omissions are accidental and not material and that the accounts have been kept in good faith with the intention of complying with the provisions of these clauses.

Interest.

6. In any suit upon or relating to any transaction with a money-lender within the meaning of this Act, notwithstanding any agreement and any provision of law to the contrary—

(a) Interest on any debt or liability shall not be allowed or decreed by the Court at a rate higher than 18 per centum per annum, simple interest.

Power of Local Government to make rules.

8. The Local Government may make rules not inconsistent with the Act for the purposes of carrying out all or any of the provisions of this Act.

(b) prescribing the manner in which the accounts required by clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 4 shall be submitted by the creditor to the debtor, the forms to be used and the details to be incorporated therein.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The business of money-lending, with which is often associated the sale of jewels and articles of common use, as carried on by certain classes of money-lenders is very unsatisfactory and places the debtors who are largely drawn from the middle and working classes at the tender mercy of the money-lenders. The need, ignorance and illiteracy of the debtors are being exploited by certain classes of money-lenders to an unconscionable degree. A certain class of the money-lenders as a rule never give receipts for the monies they receive from the debtors and they keep their accounts in a language and in a form which none but themselves can decipher or understand. Again the interest charged is exorbitantly high and it is time a reasonable maximum is fixed.

The aim of this Bill therefore is to fix a reasonable maximum rate of interest, to provide for the good and safe conduct of the business of certain kinds of money-lending and "to secure as between certain classes of money-lenders and debtors an improved system of keeping accounts which will give to the latter a means of ascertaining periodically how their accounts stand and how they are composed." At the same time the Bill is cautious enough not to unnecessarily harass the lender and restrict the facilities for credit. Also by excepting certain classes of loans it expressly avoids interference with accounts connected with trade and commerce. The penalties for non-compliance with the provisions of the Bill are not hard, but reasonable, and just sufficient to meet the requirements of the case.

This Bill is practically the Punjab Regulation of Accounts Act of 1930 with a few necessary additions to suit local conditions.

SCHEDULE II—ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

Sections relating to contract and trust in the Indian Penal Code in so far as they apply to the Artisans' Workshops in this Presidency.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The workmen employed in cottage industries, though numerically not very large, constituted an important class in the pre-British days in India, but with the passing away of the Government from the hands of the Hindu Rajas they almost became a backward community. Unless the Government lends its helping hand to the workmen employed in ancient and indigenous arts and crafts they will not be well protected in the event of the grant of further responsibilities to the people which is now engaging the attention of His Majesty's Government. The object of the present Bill is to achieve this end.

Even though there is no steam, water, electrical or other mechanical power used in the work turned out in these Artisans' Workshops, in the light of the recommendations made by the Royal Commission on Labour under the distinguished presidentship of the Rt Hon'ble Mr. Whitley, they can be brought under the operation of the Indian Factories Act, as Seasonal Factories, e.g., factories using no power but employing substantial number of workers. At present no control is exercised over them either by Government or by the respective local bodies though these Artisans' Workshops employ large number of workmen.

Thus let alone and allowed to carry on as they like without any restraint or check whatsoever these Artisans' Workshops have become a menace to the health of not only the labour employed therein but also to the citizens at large of the respective areas where they are situate. Most of these Artisans' Workshops are small airless boxes often without any windows where the workers are so crowded thickly on the ground that there is barely room to squeeze between them Others are dark semi-basements with damp mud floors unsuitable for working process Sanitary convenience and adequate arrangements for the removal of filth and refuse are generally absent. Regular intervals for meals and weekly holidays are generally non-existent The daily hours of work generally range between 12 to 16.

Another matter of paramount concern is the question of child labour. Broadly speaking about 50 per cent of the labourers employed in any one of these Artisans' Workshops are children below the age of 16 and quite a large proportion of these are children of school-going age. These children are employed for long hours usually ranging between 12 and 15 hours without adequate interval for meals or weekly rest days, for wages, as low as half or one anna per day. Corporal punishments and other disciplinary measures of a reprehensible kind are often resorted to in order to compel these children to work for such long hours and small wages. To remedy this situation as shown above and to regulate the working of the Artisans' Workshops it is proposed in this Bill that some sort of control should be vested in the Local Government as it is imperative because they have not till now done anything in this direction.

So it is necessary that legislation in regard to this matter should be undertaken without any delay whatsoever, for the number of children in these Artisans' Workshops is increasing day by day. And there can be no two opinions that something should be done—sooner the better—to save more children from getting into the inhuman clutches of the owners of these Artisans' Workshops as also to remove the existing ones from the perdition in which they are at present placed and drive them to school. Hence this Bill. Now one can understand that the most important feature of this Bill is not to allow children to work in these Artisans' Workshops at their respective hereditary occupations when they are very young with the consequent detriment to their health and literacy. Artisans' Workshops in this Presidency are exempted from the operation of sections relating to contract and trust of the Indian Penal Code in consonance with the remarks made by several presiding officers in their judgments. Civil Courts alone should deal with them.

Another important feature of this Bill is that the Labour Department will be obliged to supervise the welfare of these minor industrial workmen. Thus they will be protected from pressure of the capitalists. Moreover they will be entitled to have the political privileges as suggested by the Labour Commission.

This Bill seeks to make these Artisans' Workshops clean and healthy, regulate working hours, etc., and prohibit the employment of children under 12 years of age so as to give them an opportunity to acquire the three R's. It is hoped that the Bill paves the way for great advancement towards the industrial revival of this country.

BILL No. 25 OF 1932.

A Bill to amend the Madras Local Boards Act, 1920, for certain purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Madras Local Boards Act, 1920, for the purposes hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the Madras Local Boards (Amendment) Act, 1932.

2. In chapter 3, section 9 (3) of the Madras Local Boards Act, 1920, the words 'Muslims, Indian Christians and' shall be inserted between the words 'for' and 'Adi-Dravidas.'

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

According to the present Act, only the Adi-Dravida community is entitled to reservation of seats for it in any panchayat, at the discretion of the Local Government. The two important minority communities, Muslims and Indian Christians which are allowed to have reserved seats in the district and taluk boards, have been denied this privilege in the case of the panchayats where such reservation is absolutely necessary. The members of these communities have very little chance of being elected to the non-reserved seats. The amendment seeks to remedy this condition by permitting the Local Government to reserve seats for Muslims and Indian Christians also.

Part V.—Subsidiary legislation and penalties.

Schedule IV.—Taxation and finance, rules.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Under the existing Act, the chairman of a municipal council, who should be one of the municipal councillors, not only has to preside over meetings of the council, conduct the deliberations and carry into effect the resolutions passed but is also responsible for the due performance of the several executive functions delegated to him by the council or expressly assigned to him by the District Municipalities Act or any other law. These functions are getting more and more responsible and numerous with the levy of every new kind of tax, the introduction or expansion of water-supply, drainage, electrical, etc., schemes and the ever-increasing civic wants to be attended to. To those actually connected with the present-day municipal councils and to others following their meeting proceedings it must be clear that almost the whole time and energy of a municipal chairman are required for studying the papers to be placed before the council, explaining them to his brother councillors and getting proper resolutions recorded and that very little time and energy can be spared by him for attending to his multifarious other duties both indoor and outdoor. That this has actually been the case at least with the bigger municipalities will be evident from the enormous arrears of taxes left uncollected every year, the accumulation of revision and other petitions long pending disposal, the unauthorized and wasteful expenditure incurred which form the subject of numerous audit objections and of surcharge orders and the generally indifferent manner in which the municipal subordinates both indoor and outdoor are performing duties. With the increase in the strength of the council consequent on the introduction of the amended Act, the chairman will have to devote still more of his time and energy towards conducting the meetings of council and presiding over the several committees constituted under the Act. Further a person who is directly dependent on the votes of the electorate for getting into the council and on those of his brother councillors for being elected as chairman will be the most unsuitable agency for the proper assessment and enforcement of collection of taxes, licence-fees, etc., or for the prevention of breaches of municipal laws or by-laws or rules or for bringing the offenders to book. It is therefore desirable and necessary that the executive functions of the council and the chairman should vest with an outside authority with previous administrative experience such as a commissioner in the Presidency towns who will be in a position to perform them conscientiously without fear or favour of the electorate or of the municipal councillors and also unaffected by the several local politics. The Bill therefore provides for the office of municipal chairmen being made honorary and for the Local Government appointing, where necessary, a commissioner with powers similar to those exercised by the commissioner under the Madras City Municipal Act. If this is done, the Government may avoid the unpopularity of superseding municipal councils or dissolving them as a result of their maladministration which is mostly due to either inefficiency or high-handedness or both on the part of the chairman. Further the work now done by a paid chairman if divided between an honorary chairman and a salaried commissioner with previous administrative experience must certainly conduce to greater efficiency and expedition of business.

Reports of Select Committee to be presented to the Legislative Council of the Governor of Madras.

Under S.O. 41 of the Standing Orders of the Madras Legislative Council, the following Reports of Select Committee on the Madras Marumakkattayam Bills (Bills Nos. 13 and 20 of 1931) and the Madras Nambudri Bill (Bill No. 14 of 1931) together with the Bills as amended by the Select Committee are published :—

BILLS Nos. 13 AND 20 OF 1931.

The Madras Marumakkattayam Bills.

THE HONOURABLE THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR OF MADRAS.

WE, the Members of the Select Committee appointed on the 27th January 1932 to consider the Marumakkattayam Bills (Bills Nos. 13 and 20 of 1931), have the honour to make the following report.

2. The Bills were published in the Fort St. George Gazette in English on the 18th August 1931 and in Malayalam on the 22nd September 1931. It was also published in Malayalam in the Malabar District Gazette on the 1st November 1931 and in Kanarese in the District Gazette of South Kanara on the 24th December 1931.

3. The Nambudri Bill (Bill No. 14 of 1931) was also referred to us on the 27th January 1932 for our consideration and report.

4. We met on the 29th January 1932 for the purpose of determining our procedure. At that meeting we resolved to invite opinion on all the three Bills referred to us, from members of the communities specially affected by the measures. In response to this invitation, we received numerous opinions which were, where necessary, translated into English, and were printed and circulated to the members. On the 21st March 1932, we met again and determined the subsequent dates of our meeting. On the 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th July 1932, we considered the provisions of the Bills in detail in the light of the opinions which we had received and arrived at our decisions. Drafts of the Bills prepared in accordance with our decisions were discussed by us at our meetings held on the 5th, 6th, 8th and 9th August 1932 and on the 12th August 1932 we considered and signed our report.

5. The procedure we adopted in considering the Marumakkattayam Bills was this. We took Mr. Narayanan Nambiyar's Bill (Bill No 13 of 1931) as the basis for our discussion The bulk of the opinion which we had received was in favour of a comprehensive measure dealing with marriage, as well as partition and inheritance, and Mr. Nambiyar's Bill dealt with these subjects, while the Bill of Mr. Palat (Bill No. 20 of 1931) dealt only with the subjects of partition and inheritance That was why we took Mr. Nambiyar's Bill as the basis of our discussion. We, however, considered the provisions of both Mr. Nambiyar's and Mr. Palat's Bills wherever the provisions dealt with the same points, and have incorporated in Mr. Nambiyar's Bill as amended by us such of the provisions of Mr Palat's Bill as appeared to us to be necessary. We have substituted a single Bill as finally settled by us for both the Bills.

6. We have made numerous changes in both the Bills and for the sake of convenience shall mention the more important of them with reference to Mr. Nambiyar's Bill.

BILL No. 13 OF 1931.

Chapter I.

We have re-drafted the clause relating to local extent and application and have added a provision to make it clear that the provisions of this Bill do not apply to Jains. We have also considered it expedient to add a few definitions to those already in the Bill.

Chapter II —Marriage.

The Bill as introduced recognized the validity of marriages entered into before this Bill and we have re-drafted clause 3 of the Bill so as to make this intention clear. In view of the facilities that exist to-day for obtaining a dissolution of a Marumakkattayam marriage, we have considered it unnecessary to insist on the payment of any compensation to the wife on dissolution. We have accordingly removed the provision regarding the payment of compensation. We have provided, on the analogy of the Travancore Nayar Regulation (Regulation II of 1100) and the Cochin Nair Regulation (Regulation XIII of 1095) that notice should be given to a prescribed authority of every marriage taking place after the commencement of this Act. We have expressly provided that the provisions in this Bill regarding marriages shall not apply to Nambudri women following the Marumakkattayam law of inheritance.

Chapter III —Maintenance and Guardianship.

In Chapter III which deals with maintenance and guardianship, we have made it clear that the application of the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890, is not excluded by anything contained in the chapter.

Chapter IV —Inheritance and Intestate Succession.

We have entirely re-drafted this chapter and, in doing so, we have followed the frame of the Travancore Regulation II of 1100. We have made provision for the succession to the separate and self-acquired property of each of the following classes of persons, viz.—(a) a Marumakkattayam male, (b) a Marumakkattayam female, (c) a male not being a Marumakkattayee who has contracted a marriage valid under clause 4 with a Marumakkattayam woman: and in fixing the order of succession to them and the shares to which the heirs are entitled, we have mostly followed the provisions of the said Travancore Regulation. We consider that the provisions that have been made are in consonance with the consciousness of the communities affected and will be generally acceptable to them.

In the case of a male who is not governed by the Marumakkattayam law and who leaves relations by marriage with a Marumakkattayee female as well as relations who are heirs according to the personal law by which he is governed, we have decided that only half the self-acquired and separate property shall go to the former. It is only where such a person has left no relations who are heirs according to his personal law, that the whole of his property will go to his Marumakkattayam heirs. We have also provided that in the case of a person leaving both Marumakkattayam and non-Marumakkattayam heirs, the latter shall be entitled to the possession and management of the property until a division is effected.

We consider it unnecessary to refer to the provisions in this chapter in greater detail.

Chapter V.—Wills

We have omitted the whole chapter on Wills, as we consider it unnecessary to make separate provision for them in this measure. Of course the provisions of the Malabar Wills Act will remain unaffected

Chapter VI.—The Tarwad and its Management.

We have deleted as unnecessary several of the clauses in this chapter which dealt with tarwad and its management This Bill does not purport to be exhaustive and we have made a special provision that nothing contained in it shall be deemed to affect any rule of Marumakkattayam or Aliyasantana law, custom or usage, except to the extent expressly laid down in it. We have therefore confined this chapter to the minimum provision that is necessary for ensuring honest management of tarwad properties, such as the duty of a karnavan to maintain accounts and restrictions on alienations and borrowings by the karnavan. We have considered it sufficient to provide for the relinquishment by a karnavan of his rights as such and have deleted the provisions for the relinquishments of rights by an anandravan. The relinquishment of a karnavan's rights can be only by a registered instrument.

Chapter VII.—Partition.

This chapter has been completely re-drafted by us

We have introduced a new provision enabling a male member of a tarwad or a female member thereof without any living children or descendants in the female line to claim a partition, in cases where he or she has no female ascendant living. Provision has also been made for claiming or compelling individual partition in the case of change of religion by a male or female member of a tarwad.

In accordance with the custom and the general feeling in Aliyasantana communities we have thought it necessary to provide that on a division, half the tarwad properties should be divided on a per capita basis and the other half on a stirpital basis and to provide that the Aliyasantana male who takes shares on partition will have only a life interest, and that the property will revert on his death to his mother's tavazhi, in the absence of such tavazhi, to his maternal grandmother's tavazhi, and so on, the nearer tavazhi excluding the more remote.

The provisions regarding registration of tarwads as impartible have been elaborated, and we have provided expressly that the Collector should satisfy himself that the members signing the application did so with free consent and are still desirous of getting the tarwad declared impartible. It was also thought necessary to invest the Collector in conducting enquiries under this chapter with the powers of a civil court in certain respects. We have also provided that the order of the Collector registering or cancelling registration shall be final.

We have thought it unnecessary to retain the provision in Mr. Palat's Bill (Bill No. 20 of 1931) excluding certain tarwads from the operation of this Bill, as we consider that it is open to any tarwad to get itself declared impartible under the provisions of this chapter.

Chapter VIII.—Adoption.

We have decided to delete the chapter relating to adoptions and to allow them to be governed by the customary law.

Chapter IX.—Supplemental Provision.

In the working of this measure it may be necessary for the Local Government to make rules for various purposes We have therefore empowered the Local Government to do so and also to prescribe the procedure to be followed by the Collector in applications under Chapter VII

7. These are the more important changes made by us in these Bills and we do not consider it necessary to set forth all the changes made by us.

8. A copy of the Bill as amended by us is annexed. We consider it necessary that it should be republished.

MINUTES OF DISSENT.

I

There are a few points connected with the Marumakkattayam Bill on which I desire to express my dissent from the conclusions arrived at by the Select Committee :—

1. With reference to the application of the Act the proposed section about local extent does not deal with the movable properties of a follower of Marumakkattayam who is not a resident of the Madras Presidency. There is no apparent reason why the new Act should not apply to movables also. If sub-clauses (a) and (b) of clause 2 of section 1 are altered as follows such movables will also come within the provisions of the Act. The omission was made more inadvertently rather than intentionally :—

" It shall apply to all Hindus following the Marumakkattayam Law of Inheritance."

Clause (c) may be renumbered as clause (b).

2. The provision as to voidability of marriages when one of the parties thereto is a minor (see section 4, clause 2) is not quite happy. The object of the provision is to prevent marriages of minors without the consent of their guardians while safeguarding their interests albeit minors and of any offspring of such marriage. I believe this object can be achieved better by stating that such marriages standing unchallenged within a stated period, say, six months, shall be regarded as a valid marriage and by providing that the guardian or guardians alone can question it. This can be achieved by substituting the following proviso for proviso 2 to section 4 :—

" Provided that a conjugal union between a minor and a major or between minors shall be deemed a valid marriage if such marriage is not challenged within six months after the date of such union notwithstanding that such union was effected without the consent of the guardian or guardians as the case may be :

Provided further that no person other than the guardian or guardians as the case may be shall be entitled to question the validity of such marriage."

3. Coming to the sections as to dissolution of marriages although the sections drafted convey the result of the Committee's deliberations the language is rather involved and it would be better if the sections are altered as follows :—

" 6. A marriage valid under section 4 may be dissolved if one or the other or both of the parties to the marriage are minors only after both of them attain majority.

"7. A dissolution of marriage may be effected (a) by a registered instrument executed by the parties thereto or by (b) a formal order of dissolution as hereinafter provided."

4. With reference to property of an intestate obtained by the children or lineal descendants of deceased children under the provisions of section 19, it is not stated whether they take it with the incidents of tarwad property. The persons indicated above who inherit the property as per the distribution contemplated in section 20 should inherit them as tenants in common. A section may be added to this effect :—

"Property inherited by a group of persons as per the provisions in section 20 shall be divisible among them in equal shares."

Although the illustrations appended to the section show that this is the intention of the Committee it is desirable to enact a separate section declaring the law as stated above.

5. On the question of maintenance I do not agree to the view that would grant maintenance to a member of a tarwad who resides outside the tarwad for an improper purpose. I cannot subscribe to the view that would entitle a female member living outside the tarwad as a prostitute or a member convicted of a heinous crime and doing his term in the Andamans to claim maintenance from the tarwad funds.

6. There may be other minor defects but these are major defects which I desire to emphasize.

12th August 1932. K. P. RAMAN MENON.

II

I am sorry that I have to dissent from some of the main conclusions in the Report.

2. I am doubtful whether the Committee was right in excluding the Jains governed by the Marumakkattayam law from the operation of the whole of this Act and I have reasons to believe that if this measure is to be placed on the Statute Book, the Jains governed by the Marumakkattayam law would like to take advantage of Chapters V and VI thereof and if they are so desirous, I think those chapters should be made applicable to them.

3. I am in favour of clause 4 in so far as it recognizes and validates customary unions between a woman governed by the Marumakkattayam law and persons not governed by such law. But it declares to be valid only unions between such women and "males belonging to the same community as such females" or "males not belonging to such community with whom conjugal union is permitted by social usage." I consider that legislation of such a restricted character is quite undesirable, and that the benefits of this legislation should attach to all lawful unions between Marumakkattayam women and non-Marumakkattayam men.

4. The provisions regarding intestate succession—clauses 19 to 30—are not clear, and do not seem to be exhaustive. I am also against any provision being made in this Act for the succession to the properties of persons not governed by the Marumakkattayam law, and I am in any case against the provision in clause 30 which, in certain contingencies, may have the effect of placing a Marumakkattayam wife of a non-Marumakkattayam husband in a better position as heir than a wife of his own community.

5. While I am in sympathy with the motive underlying the provisions of Chapter VII regarding registration of impartible estates—which I take to be the prevention of the disintegration of big tarwad estates—I am not convinced that the provisions in Chapter VII are sufficient to achieve this result. The provisions seem to me to be unworkable and to be likely to prove a dead letter and unless the provisions are made more liberal I should be in favour of enacting a clause similar to the provisions in clause 2 of Mr. Palat's Bill excluding certain families such as malikhana holders and sthanis from the operation of this law.

6. A measure of the importance of this Bill affecting the daily life of appreciable portions of the community should be clear and free from ambiguities, but I regret to say that the Select Committee in more than one instance deliberately refused to clear up ambiguities stating that if questions arose, the courts would set them at rest. In one instance, the Select Committee knowingly allowed an inconsistency, namely, that between clause 4 (1) (b) (ii) and clause 4 (2), to remain uncorrected on the ground practically that it was necessary to hoodwink the people.

7. My only hope is that these difficulties will be removed from the Bill before it is placed on the Statute Book.

P. SUBBARAYAN.

III

1. Clause 1 (3).—I do not approve of the principle of excluding the Jains who are following the Aliyasantana law and who want that they should also be given the benefit of this new enactment amending the old law, so far as it relates to management and partition. Why the benefit of a legislation which affects all persons in a district following a particular law except one community, should not be extended to that community also, is what I cannot understand, especially when so far as in the case of the Nambudris following Marumakkattayam law of inheritance, it has been made to apply.

The two main reasons why they were excluded when the Bill was first considered were (1) the mistaken belief that the Jains were not Hindus and that the inclusion of the Jains within the operation of the enactment would necessitate a fresh sanction and (2) the mistaken belief again that the Jains themselves did not want to be brought under the operation of this enactment as they wanted to bring a fresh Bill for themselves. Both these grounds were shown to be mistaken when the Bill was reconsidered, but my amendment to clause 1 (3) calculated to make the Chapters V and VI of this Bill to be applicable to the Jains of South Kanara following Aliyasantana law was unfortunately ruled out by the Chairman on the ground that matters once considered should not be reconsidered though I must say in justice to my Hon. Colleague from South Kanara, Mr. Shetty, that he admitted that his representation that the Jains did not want to be brought under the Bill was due to a mistaken belief. This ruling to which however I bow most respectfully, was opposed to the usual practice in Select Committees and has stood in the way of our raising new points and considering the Bill in greater detail, not only in this respect, but in several other respects as well.

The law of property applicable to the Jains of South Kanara as I already referred to, is the Aliyasantana law and usage pure and simple, without any change. The Jains are a very large community of people owning vast landed property and suffering under the same disadvantages and hardships as the other communities following the same system of law, which this Bill now seeks to remedy. The Jains are Hindus like any other Marumakkattayee, as has been repeatedly held by our courts in 1 Allahabad, 688, 31 Calcutta, page 11 at pages 30 and 50 Madras, 228 and several other decisions. Under these circumstances, I am strongly of opinion that they should also be given the benefit of the proposed legislation which they desire as much.

2. Clauses 6 to 10.—I do not approve of the unrestricted rights of dissolution of marriage by either party which these sections contemplate.

3. Clause 22.—The principle underlying this section is in my opinion illogical. While some of the other heirs mentioned in other sections of this chapter take the property as tenants-in-common, the tavazhi mentioned in this section takes the property as joint tenants with all the incidents of tarwad property such as survivorship, etc.

4. Clause 30.—I am opposed to the principle underlying this section as it makes deep and violent inroads upon the province of Hindu law and seeks to deprive heirs under Hindu law of their vested interests. Besides, in actual practice, this section will give rise to serious hardships and anomalies, as in some cases, it would put the Nambudri wife and children by that wife in a more disadvantageous and inferior position to that of the Nayar wife who for the first time in history of the British India is raised to the status of a wife and given rights of inheritance.

5. Clause 41 (2).—I am opposed to the principle of giving only life estates to the males following Aliyasantana law, in the property got by them at partition. Creation of life estates by operation of law is an exception to the rule, but can never be allowed to be the rule itself. In this case it is not only one life estate that is created but a successive series, for when one life estate ceases and the property passes to the tavazhi, the male members getting a share of it (as the tavazhi gets the same as divisible property) get another life estate and so on. This is not only opposed to the law against perpetuity but is also hard to work and positively injurious to the best interests of the followers of Aliyasantana law, as the whole thing would lead to endless litigation and worry. This would give rise to all the litigation to which a widow's estate under Hindu Law is subject, but more

Again, if only a life estate were given to the male, it would put the male in a much inferior position to that of the female which is neither fair nor just nor reasonable. One can understand both the male and female getting an absolute estate as is provided in the Bill for the Marumakkattayees of Malabar. One can understand also a life estate being given to both the female and the male; but one cannot understand why a male following Aliyasantana law should be given only a life estate, while the female, including even females that are barren, childless, past the age of child-bearing or even widows without children, are given an absolute estate. Besides, the position of the male under a system of life estates, would be inferior even to the position of a Hindu widow under Hindu Law. The estate of a Hindu is not the unqualified life estate as is contemplated by this clause, but is a qualified one. A Hindu widow can, under certain circumstances, alienate her property as in the case of alienations for necessity, e.g., maintenance, pilgrimages, and can also represent the estate in some cases so as to bind the reversioners. An Aliyasantana male, however, could never, according to this clause, alienate his share of the property got at partition, though he is compelled to starve or go undefended in any complaint that may be brought against him; nor can he represent his reversioners in any case in any suit. This position would not only be one of inferiority to that of the female but it can also be said that it would be worse than that enjoyed by him now, for now he has a right to be maintained or defended in an action against him, etc., a right of becoming the ejman or karnavan of the whole property when his turn comes and of being considered as the owner of the family properties along with others, male and female alike; surely to consign him to a position of inferiority even to that of the Hindu widow is hardly just or fair.

Nor is this system of life estates economically sound or in keeping with the natural inclinations of a society which has outgrown the old matriarchal principle and wants to recognize marriage as a social institution with all its implications. Economically it would not tend to the improvement of the land, for no person who has only a life estate would ever care to spend his money and labour on the land, for he knows that it is not he or his wife and children who would enjoy his labours and his property but others for whom he has no such natural feeling. Nay, he would not even care to repair the buildings or canals or bunds so necessary for cultivation and living. He would only try to scoop out as much as he can out of it while yet he can ere he dies and his estate ceases.

It may be pointed out that in not giving him an absolute interest in the property, the framers of the amendment would defeat the very object which they seek to attain, namely, the tying up of the property in the original Aliyasantana family which would after a division be said to exist all but in name. Suppose a family debt of Rs. 10 were to fall to a male at division, by not paying the same and its interest the male's life estate holder can always defeat the object and have the property brought to sale and thus defeat the object.

Considering the question from the standpoint of natural inclination, when the tarwad is broken up or is sought to be broken and when marriage is to be recognized as a legal institution the creation of life estates is illogical. It may be due to the idea of placating such of the conservatives who seem to think that by an outright partition they would be losing the property which fell to the share of a male. But I do not think that there would really be any loss to the family as such, for the loss, if any, by the male taking absolutely at partition from one family would be compensated when the husbands of the females claim partition from their respective families and bring with them. Again after all we must consider that we are not framing law only for those who at present own properties and the Bunts are at present the principal propertied class, but for all the other communities following Aliyasantana law as well and they are equally strong if not superior in numbers. This principle of life estates would not have their approval at any rate as apart from everything else it is opposed to natural inclinations.

Even among the Bunts themselves I do not believe that opinion is all in favour of giving only a life estate to a male. There is, as I believe, a considerable, influential body of opinion among the Bunts themselves, especially the educated and knowing men who are for the provisions of the Bill as are applicable to Marumakkattayees in Malabar and are opposed to this amendment. I may also state that when the Council referred this Bill to the Bar Association of South Kanara, Mangalore, the Association referred the Bill to a sub-committee of 15 members all except the president being Aliyasantana members, who after consideration of all the provisions wanted no change in the nature of the estate but were for the provisions of the Bill as it originally stood in this respect. This opinion was approved by the Bar Association, and the opinion has been communicated to the Council, in all respects except regarding the principle of division, in which case in place of division per capita they recommended division half per capita and half per stirpes.

In my opinion, therefore, this clause should be deleted and the law concerning this should be brought in a line with that provided in the Bill for the Marumakkattayees of Malabar. Sentimental considerations of a section should not be allowed to outweigh higher considerations of the well-being and happiness of a whole people consisting of several communities.

The provisions of the Bill as amended by the Select Committee in so far as it relates to life estates is also defective with reference to the succession to the same on the termination of the life tenure and would give rise to serious difficulties.

12*th August* 1932. U. G. S. BHATT.

IV

I have very great doubt regarding the legality of sub-clause (c) of the extension clause inasmuch as it seeks to apply all the provisions of the Bill to persons domiciled outside the Presidency of Madras otherwise than in respect of their immovable property situated within the Presidency.

Clause 41 of the Bill as approved by the Select Committee seems to me to be open to objection. The use of the expression 'stirpital principle' is very vague and may lead to difficulties in the actual working. To take a simple case, if a woman A with two daughters B and C forms a tarwad and if A or B becomes a convert, to what share will she be entitled on a partition according to the 'stirpital principle'? Similarly there will be difficulty in ascertaining the share of an ancestress with whose consent a partition takes place among two or more sub-tavazhis constituted by her descendants.

12*th August* 1932. P. APPU NAIR.

There is a considerable volume of opinion among aliyasantana people, particularly the Bunts, in South Kanara that some of the changes proposed in the Bill are of too radical a nature. In the chapter on Marriage and its Dissolution, the first clause (clause No. 4) providing for legalization of marriage is considered to be sufficient. Polygamy does not prevail among the aliyasantana people. The marital alliances generally endure for life. Under these circumstances the necessity for any legislation enforcing monogamy and providing for dissolution of marriage through courts has not so far been felt by the community. The idea of invoking the aid of law courts to dissolve marriages is looked upon with strange fears and as an uncalled-for invasion on the social sanctions which have so far been maintaining and regulating marital relationships. Clauses 5 to 10 may therefore be deleted.

Conservative opinion is also against encouraging and hastening partition. The object of the Bill, as set forth in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, was said to be to provide only for tavazhi partition as a concession to orthodox opinion. The Bill, however, goes farther than that. It allows division among children after the death of the mother and thus individual members, males as well as females without children, get the right of claiming partition. The question whether during the lifetime of a male the tavazhi of his sister should be allowed to demand partition except with his consent is worth considering in this connexion in view of the fear entertained in many quarters that this legislation might bring about early disruption of families. The provision enabling a family to get itself registered as impartible may also be liberalized so that tarwads in which the general sentiment is against partition may take advantage of it. A suitable amendment for this purpose in the chapter on impartible tarwads will also help to disarm opposition to the Bill from the sthani families in Malabar and others who feel like them.

The Jains governed by the aliyasantana law in South Kanara have expressed their desire to have the partition chapter made applicable to them with certain modifications. This was not allowed to be done for reasons which could hardly be justified. An assurance, however, has been given to the effect that, if the opinion of the Jain community asserts itself more definitely in this matter, the Government would not oppose any amendment moved on behalf of the Jains when the Bill comes before the Council.

I must say, in conclusion, that I am in favour of making further amendments in the Bill with a view to conciliating the opponents of the Bill and making it acceptable to as large a section of the people as possible.

A. B. SHETTY.

VI

Chapter I.—In clause (i), sub-clause (2), the expressions ' to all Hindus in the Presidency of Madras ' and ' to all Hindus outside the Presidency ' are incomplete and far from being clear and they are liable to be misconstrued I may give an illustration of the difficulty that may arise. If a Hindu governed by Marumakkattayam or Aliyasantana law of inheritance dies somewhere outside the Presidency of Madras without leaving immovable property within the Presidency, it can be contended that he was not in the Presidency of Madras at the time of his death, i.e., the date on which the cause of action arose and therefore the provisions of the Act do not apply to him. To take another case, if a Hindu governed by Marumakkattayam law who for the time being resides outside the Presidency of Madras is sued for maintenance by his wife or children, it is possible for him to contend that he is not a Hindu in the Presidency of Madras and the Act is not applicable to him as this clause does not make any reference to domicile or permanent residence. I think it is necessary that the word ' domiciled ' should be introduced in subdivisions (a) and (b) of sub-clause (2).

Clause 3.—Though the expressions ' tavazhi ' used in relation to a female ' and ' tavazhi used in relation to a male ' have been defined, the word ' tavazhi ' as such has not been defined. In view of the fact that word ' tavazhi ' has been used in many of the clauses without reference to a male or female, I think a definition of ' tavazhi ' should be inserted.

Chapter II—Clause 4.—The provision in clause 4, sub-clause (i), subdivision (b) (ii), viz., that where either or both the parties are minors, the consent of the guardian or guardians is necessary has been nullified by the subsequent provision in sub-clause (2) of the same clause. Thus the result of this clause as it stands now is to give absolute freedom to infants—that is to say, to all persons below 18 years of age, male or female, to marry without the consent of the guardian. Neither the existing social usage prevailing among the community to which these provisions are intended to apply, nor the interest of the society justifies the giving of such freedom. In view of the new provisions of this Bill giving to individuals including minors absolute rights to property by way of inheritance, by way of partition, etc., it will be really dangerous to give such absolute freedom to minors to marry without the consent of the guardian.

It is true that under the Child Marriage Restraint Act (Act XIX of 1929) certain offences are created with reference to child marriage, i.e., a marriage to which either of the contracting parties is a child. A child under the said Act means 'a person who, if a male, is under 18 years of age, and, if a female, is under 14 years of age'. Under the said Act, as regards the parties to the marriage, it is only a male above 18 years of age that is punishable for contracting a child marriage. Therefore if both the parties to the marriage are below 18 years of age and the marriage is contracted without the consent of the guardian, no offence at all is committed under the said Act. Hence it cannot be pleaded that the said Act affords any protection against a marriage without the consent of the guardian between the parties who are of any age below 18 years. If a boy of six or seven years marries a girl of three or four years, neither of them having the consent of his or her guardian, the marriage is quite valid under this clause, and it does not violate any of the provisions of the Child Marriage Restraint Act. It is obvious that such a thing ought not to be sanctioned by any legislature. Moreover, even if the marriage comes within the mischief of the said Act, i.e., in cases where the male is above 18 years of age and below 21, the only consequence is that such male is punishable with fine which may extend to Rs. 1,000 and when he is 21 years or more, with simple imprisonment which may extend to one month or with fine or with both. The validity or the civil rights and obligations arising under the marriage are not affected in any way by the provisions of the said Act. The marriage under the Hindu law being a sacrament and not a contract, it cannot even be contended that section 23 of the Contract Act will cover such a case.

It is true that the doctrine of factum valet has been applied to cases of marriage contracted without the consent of the legal guardian under the Hindu law on the ground that the rule as to the consent of guardian is only directory and not mandatory. Consent of the guardian is one of the conditions of a valid marriage of a minor under clause (2), sub-clause (b) (iii), and must be deemed to be mandatory and not directory. This is quite in consonance with the existing practice and the consciousness of the community and there is no justification for adopting the rule of factum valet on the ground that it has been applied to cases under Hindu law. Moreover, we are not importing into this Bill all the provisions of Hindu law as regards marriages which are of an elaborate character and which may afford safeguards against reckless marriages in various ways.

Regulation II of 1100 of Travancore which has been followed in this Bill to a very large extent does not give the same liberty to infant marriage as is given by this clause as redrafted. Under the said Regulation, in the case of a male who has not completed 18 years of age or of a female who has not completed 16 years of age, such conjugal union shall not be deemed to be a valid marriage, unless it takes place with the consent of his or her legal guardian or unless such conjugal union is recognized and continued after the attainment of 18 or 16 years of age as the case may be by the party or parties concerned.

The proviso to section 3 of the original Bill (Bill No. 13 of 1931) is a reproduction of the proviso to section 3 of the Cochin Regulation XIII of 1096. So we find that there is no precedent for giving to infants absolute freedom of marriage without the consent of the guardian.

In these circumstances, I am of opinion that provision should be made giving the option of repudiation of the marriage to the minor on attainment of puberty where the minor is a female and on completion of 16 years of age where the minor is a male and a right to the legal guardian of the minor to avoid the marriage at any time before the minor attains puberty where the minor is a female and before the minor completes 15 years of age where the minor is a male, in cases where the marriage takes place before the minor attains puberty or completes 16 years of age as the case may be according as the minor is a female or a male and that in cases in which marriage takes place after attainment of puberty where the minor is a female, or after completion of 15 years of age where the minor is a male, but before attainment of majority, the guardian should be given the right to avoid the marriage within six months after the marriage takes place. The clause should be redrafted accordingly.

Chapter V.—The provision in this chapter to control the management of the tarwad by a karnavan is very inadequate. Even though there is provision for division of tarwads into tavazhis, there is also provision for registration of tarwads as impartible. The provision in the Bill, as redrafted, relating to the right of the anandravans for maintenance is too vague and inadequate and a more definite provision ought to be made in this connexion. There ought to be a provision for dividing certain proportion of the net income of the tarwad among the members for their maintenance. Provisions ought to be made also for making it incumbent on the karnavan of a tarwad to keep an inventory of the properties of the tarwad.

Chapter VII.—The period of 18 months given for registration of impartible tarwads is too long and ought to be reduced to one year.

Chapter VIII—Clause 48.—This clause which provides for a rule of construction is vague and if left alone as it is, will lead to a flood of litigation on the subject. The question is whether in the cases of gifts or bequests or purchases in the name of wife alone or wife and one or more children, or some of the children alone, in the absence of evidence of an intention to the contrary manifest from the said document of gift, bequest or purchase, the property should be taken as tavazhi property or as tenants-in-common. In view of the fact that the clause as it stands includes children born subsequent to the execution of the document concerned, it may be taken that the intention is to treat the property as tavazhi property. Such a view will be in consonance with the existing law. In the cases of gifts or purchases, if the donees are to take as tenants-in-common, it will be difficult to include the future children among the donees. I think it is safer not to change the existing rule and to treat such properties as tavazhi properties. In view of the new changes as regards the devolution of property by way of inheritance, it is essential that some definite provision ought to be made as regards the rule of construction, viz., that such properties should be taken as tavazhi property unless contrary intention is proved. As the word 'inheritance' which existed in the corresponding section of Bill 20 of 1931, viz., section 43, is omitted in this clause as redrafted, there ought to be another sub-clause added to the effect that properties inherited under clauses 18, 25 and 30 of Chapter IV shall be taken by the heirs as tenants-in-common except where the heir is a tavazhi in which case the property inherited by the tavazhi shall be taken by the tavazhi with all the incidents of tarwad property

There are also some other defects in the Bill which have to be rectified by proper amendments.

B. POCKER.

VII.

1. It is with regret that on the following essential questions I differ from the majority report.

2 In my opinion the tarwads of stanis should be exempted from the partition clauses of this Bill and my reasons would apply whether the Bill affects stanam property or only the property of tarwads of which the stani is a member or both. I base my claim on the following grounds :—

(a) The theory among Marumakkattayam people is that in their tarwads the males have only a right to maintenance. There have been various interpretations as to what is meant by maintenance: but it is an accepted principle that a person cannot be allowed maintenance greater than his or her proportionate share of the total distributable income from the whole of the tarwad or family property. While, as mentioned above the males have a right to maintenance only the theory is that the property of the tarwad belongs to the females and that they alone have an interest in the tarwad which they could transmit to their children and their descendants in the female line however remote. It is now proposed by this Bill to partition the whole corpus of the tarwad property on a per capita basis and give to each male absolutely the share of the corpus instead of a share in the income to which alone he has till now had a right and that for life only. It therefore follows that property so obtained is impressed with the incidents of separate property heritable by the statutory heirs of the male member concerned. The Malabar Law never recognized any such capacity in a male as a channel for transmission of inheritance and what he has been entitled to is only a right to maintenance. The property of the tarwad owned by females now passes by virtue of the provisions of the new Bill into the hands of male members and through them to their wives and children who belong to other families. Thus the property got by males on partition from the tarwad is lost to the tarwad and its female members. This chance of acquiring property absolutely has no doubt contributed to the agitation raised by certain of the younger male members of stani families for partition. The hardships which they allege they now suffer from would be cured by the proper management of the tarwad for which we have provided in the Bill and according to which each member, whether male or female, would get maintenance " according to the income and circumstances of the tarwad " (see Chapter V, clause 35, of the Bill). This is what the people now understand by the proposed change in the law. It may be asked whether this argument about the diminution of the woman's share would not apply equally to ordinary Marumakkaltayam tarwads. To this my answer is that among the general body of the Marumakkattayam people they marry among themselves, unlike the custom prevalent among the stanis and that what a woman loses in her own tarwad she gains from another tarwad through her husband. There is also the moral advantage the non-stani woman gains by having a home and married life of her own and we know the large price which a woman will pay for this and perhaps these reasons account for the absence of protest from non-stani women against partition. As I shall show later the stani woman is precluded from availing herself of either of these advantages.

However I consider this proposed change in the law an unjustified infringement on the understood rights of the women whose interest in the property is thereby diminished. The women were not consulted, and I suggested that males should be given only a life interest which would revert to their original tarwad at their death. As both the Chairman and the hon. the Law Member were strongly against creating life interests I did not press this point.

(b) Now I shall proceed to show how the woman of the stani family is disabled from securing either the moral advantages of regular marriage or the chance of receiving compensatory property adjustment by marriage. She consorts invariably with a Nambudri Brahman or in certain rare cases with a member of certain specified tarwads, who although inferior to her in social status is considered superior in caste. The 'husband' is practically maintained by the woman's family. It is considered derogatory to her rank even to visit her 'husband's' house (Evidence supplementary volume, page 35).

We can only speculate that these customs must have been imposed on the Nambudris by the ancient rulers to whose ranks these stanis belong. Now partly on account of their liberation from the absolute rule of the ancient Rajas and partly on account of the permeation among them of modern Indian ideas there is a strong movement among the Nambudris to marry in their own community. This statement of mine as to their present tendency is not disputed. It therefore follows that in future the Nambudri husbands that these ladies of stani families could secure would be of a more undesirable character than their present ones.

One who wishes to save these innumerable ladies of the stani families from the rapacity of their now powerless husbands should desist from arming them with the handy weapon of partition and it is in the interests of these ladies that I consider the application of the partition clauses to the stani families most objectionable.

Now let us look at the attitude of the Nambudri 'husband.' To the Nambudri Brahman any alliance with a woman of any of these families is merely concubinage. It is not a marriage in the eyes of the Brahman to whom marriage is a religious rite and for life while these alliances are with non-Brahman woman incapable of taking part in the religious ceremonies necessary to constitute a marriage and are terminable at will by either party and commenced without any ceremony. From his point of view such an alliance is merely a source of profit or carnal satisfaction. He is usually paid a small sum (see page 41, paragraph 3, last line, supplemental volume of evidence).

One has heard of the instance where an old Nambudri applied to the Collector of the district to be appointed the 'husband' of a minor under the Court of Wards on the ground that he had a caste wife and a large family and that the sum of — I believe it was about Rs. 12 or so—per month attached to this 'post' would help him to maintain his caste wife and family. I am mentioning this incident to illustrate the purely commercial point of view which the Nambudri takes in these matters. It is well known that the younger generation of Brahmans in Malabar is developing a communal and caste consciousness and the gulf is widening.

I would ask the reader of this minute whether he would entrust his daughter to a husband such as I have described above, entrust her and her fortune to such a man who under the social laws governing him consider her very touch pollution and who is at liberty to divorce her as provided for under this Bill, without assigning any reason whatever and who is under no legal obligation to see that her property is not wasted. This is the fate to which this Bill would condemn the stani women.

It was mentioned in the Select Committee that there have been instances of Nambudri fathers taking an interest in their non-caste wives and children, and that a Nambudri is also as subject to natural feelings as any other man. To this I may say that his affection is not the care and affection we see in wedded life but more the interest that one sees bestowed by a man on a woman who is not his wife. These instances have occurred in spite of the Hindu religious idea that it is impious to receive any gift from a Brahman and so could only be very exceptional. Cases will readily occur to any one's mind where men have ruined themselves for such women, the feeling is divorced from a sense of responsibility which alone makes it enduring.

How, I ask, can any person consider a woman as his wife whose very touch is pollution to him.

I would therefore protest against allowing the women of this class to partition their tarwads until, as I stated in the Committee and had provided for in my Bill, they begin to intermarry within their own caste or with any caste who would be prepared to treat them as their husbands and not as mere dependants. It is admittedly a fact that 99 per cent of these Nambudris are incapable of maintaining these stani wives in the comfort to which they are accustomed.

The Chairman mentioned that as a fact the Zamorin's family had partitioned in the old days. This is denied by the Eralpad Raja, one of the heads of the family among other grounds on the ground that expenses of lonsure, etc., are met from a common source but obviously no act is needed if they could partition without one.

(c) Now turning to the evidence, we have received memorials signed by a number of ladies belonging to leading families in Malabar on this subject.

The opinions printed on pages 38 and 39 of the supplemental volume are both from ladies of the Kannambra tarwad in Palghat. I may say here that I do not want that family to be exempted as they have begun to freely have husbands of their own caste. So these two opinions do not touch my argument

The next ladies' memorial for partition is the one which begins on page 46 of the supplemental volume of evidence, the memorial printed on page 29 of this volume is merely a repetition of this. The first lot of signatories to this are K. Thampatti of Nilambur and ten others. I understand that we have since then received another memorial signed by ladies of the same tarwad wanting exemption.

The next lot of signatories are 43 ladies of the Puthia Kovilagom. On reference to the Kovilagom I have been informed that ten of the signatories are minors and that many more had been induced to sign under a misapprehension. A memorial to this effect signed by many of these ladies and many who had not signed the first memorial has been sent to the Secretary.

I have nothing to say about the members of the Beppur (Beypore) family. I am prepared not to exclude them. They claim to be Kshatriyas and their touch does not carry pollution to their Nambudri husbands.

Then comes the fourth lot beginning with Ammu, etc., and thirteen others to Parvathi Malamma, etc., and others (the eighteenth lot) and these do not fulfil my conditions and I do not claim exemption for them, for they have Nayar husbands and marry freely with certain sects of Nayars whom they consider their castemen.

The next lot Thazathe, etc., and twenty-one others belonging to a branch of the Zamorin's family and are subject to the same observations I have made regarding the second lot I have dealt with above. The next two lots are, I believe, Kshatriyas and may be classed with members of the Beppur family and so also the lot after.

All the other signatories except perhaps Deshayani Kunchi Amma of Ekkaneth, etc., freely intermarry with their castemen and so I don't require exemption for them. As regards this Deshayni Kunchi Amma's family it is well known that it is not of sufficient importance to forbid its female members from going to their husbands' houses

As against these opinions that have, in some cases, been expressed as I have pointed out more or less doubtfully we have the opinion expressed by Kozhikot, etc., printed on page 34 of the supplemental volume of evidence and signed by the senior lady of Kizhakke Kovilagom, one of the main branches of the Zamorin's family, and forty-six others.

We have recently, within the last few days, received memorials signed by a number of ladies of the Zamorin's Chirakkal, Kadathanad and Walluvanad families who were the ancient rulers of the country and by other prominent families like Punnathur, Kuthiravattarth, Kollengode, Nilambur, etc. I ask now on which side is the weight of evidence.

(d) Apart from these ladies' opinions to mention only a few, the Zamorin Raja, the Eralpad Raja, the Rajas of Chirakkal and Kadathanad, etc., have expressed themselves against partition. No one would dispute that the opinion of the present Zamorin Raja on this question is more valuable than that of any other living person. Apart from his position as head of the premier family in Malabar and the representative of the ancient ruling family of the country, it is well known that he is a gentleman of great culture and was a distinguished District Judge in the British service; also he was considered an ideal manager of his tarwad by its younger members.

(e) I have been returned to this Council mainly by the stani voters in Malabar: while I doubt if any other member of this Council could claim to have had even a single stani vote cast in his favour and I have strongly opposed the application of the partition clauses to stani families It is a well-understood maxim of popular Government that there should be no legislation without representation. On this point some of the members from Malabar have thought fit to vote for partition among the stanis although they do not represent them and hardly know anything of the lives they lead.

There are in the Indian Central Legislature two members who come from stani families. I refer to Raja Sir Vasudeva Raja alias the Valia Nambidi of Kollengode and Mr. Prabhakaran Thampan. They are both members of the Legislative Assembly and have both expressed themselves strongly against partition The latter who is a junior member of his tarwad would surely have protested against exemption if he had felt that junior members of stani tarwads would suffer any hardships by the proposed exemption.

(f) It is admitted on all sides that there is a considerable section of opinion among the stani families that there should be no partition among them These members of the Committee who opposed me on the point of exemption may say that some of the younger members of these families have demanded partition Be it noted that these younger members have had no practical experience of family management but even granting for the sake of argument that all the junior members of all these families want partition is that a reason for ignoring altogether the opinion of the karnavans or heads of the families experienced in family matters and of the ladies? This is a matter of social legislation and I submit that if there is any considerable difference of opinion in any community the only safe thing to do is to leave alone that community and a system of law that has stood the test of time.

(g) Again in the Native States of Cochin and Travancore—where the conditions are identical—the Acts passed do not touch the corresponding classes. The Acts there are called Nair Regulations and affect the family law of the Nayars only and even there, the Paliam family, though Nayars has been by special mention exempted. The exemption in these States applies to the whole Act and not from merely the partition chapter which is all I want. I would have nothing to say if the Act here is also similarly confined to Nayars. Those who have opposed me have the hardihood to say that they know more about the stanis, than any of their representatives, than their leading men and more than the Rulers and Legislatures of these States as to what these families need.

(h) Those persons from Malabar who have opposed me have without exception been returned on the votes of the tenant classes or been nominated to represent a class composed predominantly of tenants and this is an attempt on their part by using their majority in the Committee to break up the ancient landed tarwads of the country. I claim that these families should be preserved on the principle admitted by the Government—the principle which has preserved an ancient landed class in Great Britain and allowed the Impartible Estates Act.

(i) The fact that clause 5 of the Bill forbids polygamy makes it impossible for the majority of stani women to secure husbands; for their social and caste rules do not permit them to intermarry among themselves and the new pro-Brahman movement would make the Nambudri marry by preference a caste wife so that no Nambudri would be available as husband for a stani woman unless she is prepared to be his second wife. It is an irresponsible piece of legislation which forbids a woman to take as her husband a person whom alone her sense of caste permits her to marry. So this statutory monogamy is another attempt to disrupt the family life of the stani tarwad.

The Bill provides no penalties for divorce and marriage is terminable at will of either so long as one of the parties is a Marumakkattayam woman. A man cannot have two wives at the same identical time, but can divorce and re-marry Marumakkattayam women as often as he pleases—that is of course subject to his being of the right caste. So the Nambudri, who marries in his own caste and cannot divorce his caste wife, is incapacitated from marrying a stani woman while on the other hand there is very little to choose between polygamy which might to a certain extent meet this difficulty and the freedom of divorce and re-marriage allowed under this Bill to both sexes.

(j) The hon. the Law Member himself in a Bill similar to this entitled the Malabar Partition Bill No. 2 of 1910, clause 8, has exempted the malikhana holders who are mostly stanis. He has assigned no reason now for his change of view and all that one could guess is that he thinks this a favourable opportunity to break up these families

* * * *

(k) In the first volume of the evidence before us there is not a single woman's opinion and in the supplemental volume, a later publication, we see a number of ladies protesting against partition by when an alarm had already been raised about the attitude of certain members of the Select Committee The Committee considered the question of the exemption of stanis on the 8th and 9th of July, and a summary of the proceedings of this Committee was published in the Malabar newspapers. This greatly alarmed the ladies of stani families, who till then could hardly realize that a committee of this Council would come to such a finding in their case against the opinion of their representative when they knew that my Bill specifically excluded them and when they knew that they belonged to a class which differed greatly from that of any member of the Select Committee and a number of memorials signed by large numbers of ladies belonging to the stani families as well as by many leading men of these families have since been received On the 6th of August this question was sought to be reopened by me in the Committee and it was suggested that the opinion of the Committee should be taken whether we should go again into this question. As I shall show later (see paragraph 9) the majority were in favour of reconsideration but the Chairman ruled that he had the power to refuse to take the opinion of the Committee as to whether this question should be reconsidered. This ruling has brought great hardship on the community especially when one bears in mind that this is a matter of social legislation and introduced by a private member who does not represent the stanis comes is partitioned and pauperized he would not be brought up in the right atmosphere.

(n) In order to effect a compromise I suggested that the whole class of stanis or mahkhana holders need not be exempted, but only certain classes among them, or certain specified families, specified either then and there by the Committee or as Mr. Shetty proposed by the Collector of Malabar. Both these propositions were turned down, although the indulgence asked for was for a short period only, till the tendencies indicated by me in paragraph 2 (b) have had time to fructify and the growth of the communal feeling among the Nambudris, the development among them of greater independence and of moral sense forbidding polygamy would have dried up the supply of Nambudri husbands, while on the other side, the ladies themselves would have become imbued by those influences which have entirely changed the outlook, originally identical, of women belonging to other Marumakkattayam communities, and would insist on getting husbands from among the members of their own community [last but one paragraph of paragraph 2 (b) above].

(o) The majority report mentions that stani tarwads can declare themselves impartible under Chapter VII of this Bill. This again is merely a paper remedy, e.g., if a tarwad consists of, say, ten tavazhis, and has an old woman with no female ancestress in the female line living, and if either she is childless or has a couple of sons, she herself in the first case or with the consent of one of her sons could prevent the tarwad from being registered as impartible. The other nine tavazhis may between them form 97 per cent of the tarwad, still she could hold everything up, and so enable by this Act of hers single males with no female ancestress in the tarwad to partition and take their property out of the tarwad. Practically speaking, this works no hardship in the case of the non-stani Marumakkattayam family as I have already pointed out their marriage and inheritance give them sufficient compensation but that is not so with stanis.

Now, I shall deal with the various sections of the Bill.

3. We have clauses 4 (i), (ii), stating "a male not belonging to such community and whether a Marumakkattayi or not with whom conjugal union is permitted by social usage " as one of the conditions which should be fulfilled for a marriage under this Act. I submit that this is a most retrograde measure and would prevent the fusion of castes which is taking place in Malabar and directly stands in the way of the formation of a common nation. This directly negatives the idea contained in Gour's Indian Civil Marriage Act where the Central Legislature allows marriage between persons belonging to even different religions * * * It must be remembered that the measure contemplated was merely permissive.

4. Again clause 4 (1) (iii) (a) states another condition for a valid marriage is that " the parties to the union are not related in . . . such degree . . that union between them is prohibited by any custom of the community to which they belong or either of them belongs." Till now only such marriages were forbidden as were disallowed by the usage of the community to which the woman's family belonged. A further restriction on the existing practice is now sought to be introduced. This is unjustifiable.

5. Chapter II, clause 5 (1), of the Bill forbids polygamy. There are many persons particularly in South Kanara and North Malabar among the followers of the Marumakkattayam law who practise polygamy. Polygamy is not foreign to the spirit of either the Hindu law or the Marumakkattayam law while polygamy is prevalent in every part of India including Malabar; this anxiety to enforce monogamy in Malabar seems more a veiled attack on the stanis than anything else [see above paragraph 2 (i)]. In the Nambudri Bill this very Committee has allowed polygamy.

6. In Chapter IV a completely new line of intestate succession has been settled on and principles evolved out of the inner consciousness of the members of the Committee and occasional references to the Travancore Nair Regulation. These innovations have not been published to elicit public opinion. I think this most unfair. These rules of law apply to Nambudris who marry Nambudri women and supersede the husband's personal law for which there is no sufficient warrant.

7. By clause 32 of Chapter V a karnavan is to keep 'true and correct accounts.' There is no sanction or penalty provided if he does not.

8. Now I will deal with Chapter VI. I have already expressed my opinion that males should have only a life interest. No doubt a male according to the present practice gets an equal share with a female, but that is the only way left to the woman who is oppressed by the mismanagement of her karnavan to save any property for herself. The Committee has allowed life estates in the case of followers of the Aliyasantana law where they have laid down rules impossible to administer in practice, while in the case of the followers of Marumakkattayam law, they have disallowed it. There is no justification for this differentiation.

9. Finally, with all due respect, I have a word to say on the way these Bills have been rushed through. Although the Committee had met earlier the two Bills were actually taken up for consideration on Monday, the 4th of July, at 12 noon. We sat from 11-30 a.m. to 3 p.m. for the rest of the week and by then were supposed to have completed the task of enacting afresh the whole of the domestic law of the Marumakkattayam peoples of the West Coast, a law more important in its incidence on the lives and property of the people of Malabar and South Kanara than the Malabar Tenancy Act. The general procedure in Select Committees of this Council has been to reopen any point when a majority desired to do so, but when we met on the 6th of August the Chair without putting this principle to the vote ruled that no question should be reopened, and that we could correct only obvious discrepancies between different sections of the Bill, and see if the new drafting expressed the decisions we had arrived at during our July sittings.

VIII.

In Chapter VI, in the case of tarwad management, I think it necessary to add a clause making it incumbent on the karnavan to maintain an inventory of all the tarwad properties.

There ought to have been another clause enabling the karnavan to appropriate to himself if he wants, at least 6 per cent of the total net income of the tarwad.

Another objection I have is regarding the restriction to marry more than one wife without divorcing the existing wife and even with her consent. In a country where conjugal union is quite free and unrestricted, I think it too much to go to the other extreme so very suddenly. Every religion except Christianity allows plurality of wives. Even in Christian countries the present tendency is to allow a certain amount of latitude. In certain circumstances it becomes a necessity also. I think therefore that in Chapter II there ought to be a provision relaxing this restriction.

MAHMUD SCHAMNAD.

MINUTE OF DISSENT OF MR. M. S. SRESHTA.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

I should like to explain my position with reference to one or two provisions of the Bill under report. Although I do not intend to write a dissenting minute to the report of the Committee, I should be doing less than justice to myself if I do not make it clear that I would have liked these provisions to be rid of the objections I feel. In Chapter II, clause 4 (1) (ii), it is said that a conjugal union of a marumakkattayee female with "a male not belonging to such community and whether a marumakkattayee or not, with whom conjugal union is permitted by social usage, shall be deemed for all purposes to be a legal marriage." I am afraid that the term "social usage" is unduly restrictive of the scope of legality and narrows down the limits within which legal marriages are permissible. The Bill is evidently intended as a measure of much-needed social reform, and to confer legal only such conjugal unions as are permitted by social usage will, to a considerable extent, defeat the intended purpose. "Social usage" is a very elastic term, and what has been the usage yesterday is hardly the usage to-day and will certainly not be the usage of to-morrow. The enlightened spirit of the times is very much at work among the people, and it would hardly be fair to throw up legislative barriers in the way of the full development and progress of that spirit. Marumakkattayees and non-marumakkattayees belonging to castes and communities supposed to be on a higher social scale have been contracting marriages hitherto with marumakkattayee females, and rightly does the Bill seek to stabilize such unions and invest them with all the incidents of a legal marriage.

While doing so, it would have considerably helped the cause of social reform if unions contracted by marumakkattayee females with marumakkattayee or non-marumakkattayee males of alleged lesser social status were also recognized as legal marriages. It may be that unions of this type are rare. But that is hardly an argument to deny legal validity to, and thus prevent the occurrence of, such marriages in future. That freedom to form matrimonial relationships with whomsoever of one's choice must be conceded in full measure to male and female alike is one of the high ideals that every sincere social reformer seeks to achieve; and to the extent that this particular provision of the Bill operates as an obstacle to the achievement of that ideal, the Bill seems to be defective.

Similarly, in respect of partition, I beg to submit that the preponderant feeling on the West Coast is in favour of individual, and not tavazhi, partition. It is true that in the Bill as introduced by me in the Legislative Council I had provided only for tavazhi partition. But I did so for two reasons. In the first place, I felt that it would be easier to get the sanction of the Governor-General for the introduction of the Bill if I had simply followed the lines of legislation attempted by my predecessor in the Council, Mr. K. Madhavan Nayar, who had introduced a more or less identical Bill with identical provisions. Secondly, I wanted to follow the line of least resistance and get through some piece of legislation which, though not completely satisfactory, will assuredly alleviate some of the hardships suffered under, and correct some of the anomalies associated with the existing law relating to partition in Malabar. For my part I shall be glad, however, if as a result of discussion in the Council, provision is made in the Bill for individual partition without any reservations whatever. Even if this does not happen, I am confident many years will not have to pass after the present legislation before the demand becomes strong and irresistible for individuals being permitted to claim their share of tarwad property and lead separate and independent lives if they are so minded.

2. The Bill was published in the Fort St. George Gazette in English on 18th August 1931 and in Malayalam on the 22nd September 1931. It was also published in Malayalam in the Malabar District Gazette on the 1st November 1931 and in Kanarese in the District Gazette of South Kanara on the 24th December 1931.

3. On the 29th January 1932 we met for the purpose of determining our procedure. At that meeting, we resolved to invite opinions from persons having special interests affected by the Bill, and in response to the invitation and the note inserted in the papers in accordance with our resolution, we received numerous opinions. We have carefully considered the provisions of the Bill in the light of such opinions and, as a result thereof, have made numerous amendments in the Bill as introduced The Marumakkattayam Bills of Mr. Narayanan Nambiyar (Bill No. 13 of 1931) and of Mr. Palat (Bill No 20 of 1931), had also been referred to us for consideration and report and we have thus been enabled to come to conclusions which are consistent with those Bills as amended by us.

4. We met on the 11th and 12th July 1932 and on the 9th and 10th August 1932 for the consideration of this Bill, and on the 12th August 1932 we met and passed our report.

5. The more important changes made by us in the Bill are mentioned below :—

Chapter I

The Bill as introduced was applicable only to Nambudri Brahmans domiciled in the Presidency of Madras and the Bill contained a definition of the term 'Nambudri Brahmans.' As amended by us, the Bill will be applicable to all Nambudri Brahmans in the Presidency of Madras who are not governed by the Marumakkattayam law of inheritance; and, in respect of immovable property in the Presidency of Madras, to such Nambudri Brahmans who are outside the said Presidency. We have also made it applicable to specified communities in the Malabar district who follow customs and usages similar to those of Nambudri Brahmans.

Chapter II.

We have omitted some of the definitions, notably definitions of 'marriage' and 'sambandam' as provision has been made in the Marumakkattayam Bill recognizing 'sambandams' as valid marriages.

Chapters III and IV.—Illom and its Management.

We have re-drafted these chapters and have inserted provisions similar to those contained in the chapter on 'Tarwad and its management' in the Marumakkattayam Bill In the Bill as originally introduced, the seniority of a female who becomes a member of an illom by marriage was according to the rank of her husband. We have altered this provision and have provided that the seniority of such female member shall be according to the date of her marriage. This we understand to be in accordance with the existing custom of the community..

Chapter V.—Marriage.

The Bill as introduced provided that every sambandam contracted by a Nambudri Brahman after the commencement of this Act shall be void. We have deleted this provision as it conflicts with the provisions of the Marumakkattayam Bill which recognizes such sambandams whether entered into before or after the date when that Bill becomes law, as valid marriages and provides (clause 5 of that Bill) that a subsequent marriage during the continuance of a marriage valid under that Act shall be void. We have provided that any major male Nambudri shall be at liberty to marry in his own community but he can do so only subject to the provisions of the Marumakkattayam Act and of course subject to any other law for the time being in force. We are against further provision being made for the enforcement of monogamy. We have therefore deleted the clause in the Bill providing for the enforcement, subject to exceptions, of monogamy. We have made a special provision enabling an unmarried major female member of an illom to recover the reasonable expenses of her marriage as well as a dowry.

Chapter VI.—Maintenance and Guardianship.

We have made certain changes in the order of guardianship of minors and have also inserted an express provision to the effect that the husband shall be the guardian of his minor wife in respect of her personal and separate property.

Chapter VII.—Inheritance and Succession.

We have practically re-written this chapter and have considerably modified the mode of devolution provided for in the Bill as introduced, as we believe that our scheme is more in consonance with the desires and needs of the Nambudri community than the provisions made in the original Bill. In making the provision we have acted with great diffidence as the evidence before us was not sufficiently strong or clear as to the order of succession which the community itself would prefer.

Chapter VIII.—Partition.

We have made it clear that as between the husband and wife there cannot be a severance of shares or a claim to partition. We have also deleted the provision in the Bill as introduced according to which two or more members of an illom by claiming partition jointly could constitute a new illom. We consider that the property obtained on partition by an unmarried male or unmarried female should belong to them absolutely and not for life and have accordingly deleted the provision in the Bill as introduced which gave them only a life estate in such property.

Chapter IX.

We have deleted the chapter relating to re-union as we have expressly provided that all rules of law, custom and usage obtaining in the community will continue to apply except to the extent expressly laid down in the Bill.

A copy of the Bill as amended by us is attached.

We consider that the Bill as amended should be republished.

MINUTES OF DISSENT.

I

I do not think that the section in the original Bill that prohibited polygamy should have been omitted by the Select Committee. The community by a very large majority condemn polygamy in no uncertain terms and under those circumstances the Committee should have retained that provision and provided for strict monogamy after the passing of this Act. Among the Nambudris, the son of the eldest brother performs the funerals of the others at present and that being so, even the absence of a son would not be a sufficiently compelling reason to marry another wife inasmuch as brothers' sons occupy the same position as one's own son and would be quite competent under Nambudri usage to perform the obsequies of a person who dies without sons.

The Bill, as it was originally published in the Gazette and introduced in the Council, was made applicable only to the Nambudri Brahmans. Clause 25 of the Bill, as amended by the Select Committee, extends its provisions to some other communities also. The members of these other communities were not consulted regarding the provisions of the Bill and were not given opportunities to express their opinions as to whether they desired to be governed by its provisions. The customs and usages of the communities to whom the said clause 25 seeks to extend the provisions of the Bill are different from those of the Nambudri community. It is wrong on principle to make the provisions of the Bill applicable to communities to whom it was not originally intended to apply. Clause 25 of the Bill, as amended by the Select Committee, should therefore be deleted.

M. KRISHNAN NAIR.

III

The Committee did not have sufficient evidence to enable it to come to confident conclusions regarding the provisions which should be made for succession and inheritance among the Nambudris, and I am doubtful whether the provisions which have been made, are in accordance with the desires and needs of that community. The provisions appear to have been drafted more with a view to complete a Bill than out of a conviction that they are the best; and such as they are, they are neither clear nor complete. In the circumstances, while I am not in a position to dissent from the conclusions, I am not in a position to agree to them.

I think also that the provision in the Bill as introduced preventing polygamy among the Nambudris, should not have been deleted by the Committee. I am certain that such a provision would be welcome to the community, and I regret that while the Committee did not have any objection to the inclusion of such a provision in the Marumakkattayam Bill in respect of persons not governed by that law, many of whom are, I believe, opposed to such a provision, the Committee thought it fit to delete a provision in the Bill as introduced although the community affected by it want to have it.

P. SUBBARAYAN.

I agree.

IV

I have considerable doubt as to whether the Select Committee is in order in making the Bill applicable to communities other than Nambudri Brahmans, when the Bill as introduced in the Council was intended to apply solely to Nambudri Brahmans. From the evidence before the Committee it does not appear that the members of the communities referred to in clause 25, generally desire any such legislation, nor is there evidence on record to show that the customs and usages observed by those communities are similar to those of the Nambudris.

The Committee has also varied the provision regarding intestate succession where the intestate has not left a widow, child or descendant in the male line. The order of succession mentioned in clauses 18 and 19 conflicts in many respects with that under the Hindu Law; and so far as I can gather from the evidence, the community has not definitely asked for any such departure. The law at present applicable to Nambudri Brahmans is the ordinary Hindu Law except to the extent it is varied by custom or usage. I do not think it can be claimed that the order of succession laid down in clauses 18 and 19 obtains in practice among Nambudris or that the community generally desires such an order of succession

Chapter I.—My remarks in respect of clause 1, sub-clause (2) of the Marumakkattayam Bill apply to clause 1, sub-clause (2) of this Bill also.

Chapter II.—Clauses 5 and 6 of this chapter contradict each other and cannot be left as they are. According to clause 5, sub-clause (1), the written consent of the majority of the members of the illom is necessary for sale or mortgage with possession or lease for a period exceeding twelve years, while under clause 6 which also covers the case of a mortgage no such consent is necessary. Further under clause 6 proof of necessity alone is enough, while under clause 5, sub clause (1), proof of benefit also will justify the mortgage. If by word " mortgage " in clause 6 is meant mortgage without possession, I do not see any reason why the condition to obtain the consent of the majority of the members as provided for in clause 5 should not be extended to mortgage without possession too.

These remarks will apply also to clauses 33 and 34 of the Marumakkattayam Bill. The said provisions of both the Bills have to be clarified.

Chapter III.—The Committee has decided that the rule of polygamy which is allowed by the Hindu law and which is followed by the community at present should not be disturbed and has accordingly deleted clause 8 of the original Bill (Bill No. 14 of 1931) which provided for monogamy as the general rule and permitted polygamy only under certain conditions, namely. (1) where the wife is afflicted by an incurable disease, (2) where the wife has not borne any child within ten years of her marriage and (3) where the wife has not borne a male child within fifteen years of her marriage. I certainly do hesitate in supporting a view which is opposed to the provision of the Hindu law which is mainly followed by this community. But at the same time it seems to me that it is quite clear that there is a preponderance of public opinion in the community in favour of monogamy. In this connexion one cannot lose sight of the fact that to provide for a rule of monogamy in a society which does not countenance divorce under any circumstances will work hardships in many cases. But such hardships are intended to be minimized as far as possible by allowing polygamy under certain conditions by clause 8 of the original Bill.

Moreover, in view of the provision in clause 5 of the Marumakkattayam Bill which prohibits a Nambudri who has a marumakkattayee wife from contracting another marriage either with a marumakkattayee woman or a woman of his own caste, it will be anomalous to permit unrestricted polygamy as regards marriage within their own community.

In these circumstances, I am of opinion that clause 8 of the original Bill should be retained.

Clause 10.—Under clause 10 a Nambudri woman on her marriage is entitled to the reasonable expenses of her marriage as well as her dowry which shall not exceed one-third of the value of the share which would fall to her on a division per capita if a division takes place at that time or Rs. 10,000 whichever is less. Under explanation to clause 2, sub-clause (c), a female shall on her marriage cease to be a member of her original illom and shall be a member of the illom of her husband. The result is that the woman gets a sum up to Rs. 10,000 or one-third share out of the properties of her original illom and becomes also entitled to full rights in the illom of her husband. Therefore every Nambudri woman on her marriage is at a greater advantage than the male members of the illom. I think this is rather iniquitous. To minimize this injustice, the provision in clause 10 of sub-clause (2) should be modified, so that the amount recoverable for marriage expenses and dowry shall not exceed one-sixth of the share to which she would be entitled on a division per capita at the time of the marriage or Rs. 5,000 whichever is less.

I am in entire disagreement with the views of the Select Committee in regard to marriage. "The Bill as introduced" says the Committee, "provided that every sambandham contracted by a Nambudri Brahman after the commencement of this Act shall be void. We have deleted this provision as it conflicts with the provisions of the Marumakkattayam Bill which recognizes such sambandhams whether entered into before or after the date when that Bill becomes law, as valid marriages and provides (clause 5 of that Bill) that a subsequent marriage during the continuance of a marriage valid under that Act shall be void. We have provided that any major male Nambudri shall be at liberty to marry in his own community, but he can do so only subject to the provisions of the Marumakkattayam Act and of course subject to any other law for the time being in force. We are against further provision being made for the enforcement of monogamy. We have, therefore, deleted the clause in the Bill providing for the enforcement, subject to exceptions, of monogamy." In my opinion, it is high time that monogamy should be insisted upon and made the rule and not the exception. The horrors and agonies experienced by the Nambudri women wedded to males of their own caste who have formed matrimonial alliances with women of other communities are too tragic for words; nor are the sufferings of the latter any the less harrowing. It appears to me, therefore, that, if the Bill is to be the blessing that it is hoped it should be, it should accept monogamy as a fundamental principle and enforce it among the Nambudri community.

V. P. NARAYANAN NAMBIYAR.

One would hesitate to support a Bill affecting large interests in property and the domestic law of a community of which one is not a member were it not for certain patently unjust conventions in that community which offend one's moral sense.

Even more than among the ordinary Hindus is the birth of a girl in a Nambudri family looked on with sorrow and not only is her birth unwelcome, but she is made to feel how unwanted she is all the time that she is a member of the illom of her birth. It is only on her marriage that her position at all alters, and the chances of marriage for her are very remote. As a rule only the eldest male of the eldest stirpes or branch of a Nambudri illom marries, while the others form alliances with non-Brahman women, and so the chances of a Nambudri woman securing a husband are very doubtful indeed. Unless all the men in a community are permitted to marry there is sure to be a large population of unmarried women in that community. The great majority of them die unwedded, and the main reason why I have not opposed this Bill is to secure happiness and a family life for these voiceless and unhappy women.

Partition has to be permitted in order to enable the junior members of the Nambudri illoms to marry. One must provide them with the necessary economic means, and so while regretting the break up of the ancient Nambudri illoms I feel myself constrained to support this Bill in the interests of morality and for the sake of the ladies of these families.

We might have stopped there and applied the ordinary Mitakshara law as followed by the rest of the Brahmans in this Presidency to the inheritance, stridhana, etc., of this community. But as I have pointed out in my dissenting note on the Madras Marumakkattayam Bill an entirely new system of law has been set up * * *.

It has been held by the Courts that, except in matters governed by custom, the Mitakshara system of law applies to the Nambudris. Instead of either going into this question of custom or of applying the Mitakshara law—since both these have stood the test of time—an imperfect and untried set of rules have been laid down.

No. 1288.—In G.O. No. 2389, L. & M., dated 30th July 1932, M.R.Ry. C. Samuel Aaron Avargal, Chairman, Municipal Council, Cannanore, was called upon to show cause why he should not be removed from the office of Chairman of the Municipal Council for the reason that, although he was convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for a term of eighteen months for offences connected with the Civil Disobedience movement and was thereby rendered incapable of discharging his duties and performing his functions as Chairman, he delegated all his functions to the Vice Chairman, continued to hold the office of Chairman and thus abused the powers vested in him. No satisfactory cause against his removal having been shown, the Government hereby remove M.R.Ry. C. No. 1289.—In G.O. No. 3306, L. & M., dated the 18th August 1932, the Government fixed the 31st August 1932 for the retirement of the existing members and for the coming into office of the newly elected members of the Phiranginpuram Panchayat in the Guntur district. No. 1293.—In G O. No. 2500, L. & M., dated the 27th June 1932, the Government fixed the 31st August 1932 for the retirement of the existing members and for the coming into office of the newly elected members of the district and taluk boards in the Vizagapatam district. They since find that the dates of the meetings for the election of presidents and vice presidents to the district and taluk boards cannot be fixed immediately after that date. It is not desirable that there should be an interval between the date of the coming into office of the newly elected members and the dates fixed for the election of presidents. In exercise therefore of the power conferred by rule 6 (3) (i) of the Schedule to the Madras Local Boards (Amendment) Act, 1930, the Government are accordingly pleased to postpone the date fixed in G O No. 2500, L & M., dated the 27th June 1932, for the retirement of the existing members of the district and taluk boards in the Vizagapatam district and for the coming into office of the newly elected members and to fix the following dates in lieu thereof :—

Notice is hereby given that the draft will be further proceeded with after six weeks from the date of publication of this notification and that any objection or suggestion which may be received before the expiry of the period aforesaid with respect to the said draft will be considered by the Governor acting with Ministers.

DRAFT AMENDMENTS.

1. For rule 3 of the said rules the following rule shall be substituted, namely :—

"3 (1) Every district board shall establish and maintain a provident fund for the benefit of its officers and servants as well as of the officers and servants of every taluk board within its jurisdiction and of such panchayats within its jurisdiction as were union boards on the 25th August 1930.

subscriber takes service. In the case of a teacher,

(c) who with the consent of the local board which employs him takes service in a school under another local body, for the benefit of the officers and servants of which the provident fund is not maintained by the same district board, or in a school to which the Government provident fund scheme for teachers in non-pensionable service applies, or

At the end of the year interest and contribution shall be calculated on the account of each subscriber and the amounts posted in the respective columns against each subscriber. The contributions payable by taluk board and panchayat shall be promptly recovered and entered in the cash book. As regards contributions payable by the district board and interest on subscriptions and contributions, a transfer adjustment voucher shall be drawn up and passed by the president, district board, for credit to the debt head 'Provident fund' by debit to the service head 'Contributions to the provident fund', and the adjustment included in the accounts of the year. (G.O. No. 3423, L. & M.)

No. 1306.—In G.O. No. 2500, L. & M., dated the 27th June 1932, the Government fixed the 31st August 1932 for the retirement of the existing members and for the coming into office of the newly-elected members of district and taluk boards in all the districts except the Nilgiri, Chingleput and Madura districts. They since find that, in some districts, the elections of members are in different stages of progress and cannot be completed before the 31st August 1932 while in others the electoral rolls have not yet been made final. It has also not been found possible to conduct the elections to panchayats which were originally constituted under the Madras Village Panchayat Act, 1920, within the 31st August 1932. A further postponement of the date already fixed has thus become necessary in all these cases. Separate orders are being issued in respect of the district and taluk boards in the Vizagapatam district. In exercise of the power conferred by rule 6 (1) (c) of the Schedule to the Madras Local Boards (Amendment) Act, 1930, the Government are hereby pleased to postpone, in respect of the remaining district and taluk boards and panchayats shown in the appendix to this order, the date fixed in G.O. No. 2500, L. & M., dated the 27th June 1932, for the retirement of the existing members and for the coming into office of the newly elected members and to fix the dates shown against them in lieu thereof.
